KCHO/North State Public Radio

Phil Wilke arrived in Chico after one fire and before another, and the Carr and Camp fires affect what he does every day. Wilke, the new General Manager of North State Public Radio, 91.7 FM, took over the station just after the Carr Fire burned down the network's transmitter in Redding and two months before the Camp Fire devastated Butte County.

Since then, the Redding transmitter has been brought back online and the station's coverage of the Camp Fire – including their weekly, 30-minute show "After Paradise", airing 6:30 p.m. Thursdays – have gained national attention. "After Paradise" is dedicated to post-fire recovery information.

Wilke directs a staff of 10 and a dozen independent producers and on-air volunteers. NSPR is a member of National Public Radio, broadcasting their signature news shows "Morning Edition" and "All Things Considered", as well as interviews on "Fresh Air"; locally hosted classical music and jazz; locally hosted author interviews, gardening, travel and science shows; and nationally syndicated music, news and entertainment shows. Listeners can tune in online at mynspr.org.

Caleb Klungtvet

Owner and Manager

Established in 1973, Art Etc. has been a downtown area business known for their knowledge and expertise of art and artists, especially local ones. 6 months ago, Caleb Klungtvet and family took over the well-known shop. Klungtvet, having 10 years experience in multiple frame shops and a degree in art, made him and his family of artists the perfect choice for continuing on the Art Etc. legacy.

"I just enjoy being around art and talking to an interesting and eclectic group of people. I know it's cliché, but I just like to make people happy," said Klungtvet.

In addition to their diverse collection of art prints and having an extremely knowledgeable framer, Michelle Garrison, what makes Klungtvet proud in their on-site computerized mat cutter, which keeps the product consistent and saves time in production. This all means quicker turnaround times for their customers.

So, if you are looking for a custom frame shop that provides you with endless options for preserving your most valued possessions, check out Art Etc. and Frame What You Love!
