

What's your dream bike?

I just purchased my dream bike, the All-City Gorilla Monsoon. It is all-roads capable, trail-friendly, fast-rolling and really comfortable. It has a mountain drivetrain capable of rougher terrain, but [is] still fast and efficient.

I actually have my dream bike I call "the banana boat." It's a hideous yellow beach cruiser, so nobody is ever going to steal it. Whenever I ride it, I get looks no matter what time of day or where I go.

My dream bike would be bamboo with a leather back basket, leather seat and white trim tires. I've never seen anything like it. It's just something I've made up in my head.

The Trek electric one on display here. I can go much farther in my spare time. They are back-ordered until July. I enjoyed my last Trek Navigator—nonelectric—but it burned up in the fire.
