

How can we help those affected by the Camp Fire?

Asked at Thursday Night Market

Just keep our arms open, [and] recognize there are still some big issues. Many of the displaced need to be incorporated into this new community. There needs to be more clubs, support groups and options.

Be mindful of traffic. People are here that don't know the city that well. Just be respectful to them and welcome them into your community. We all have to help each other, and it could just as easily have happened to Chico.

One of the best ways is by putting support behind the homeless shelter that is proposed for Orange Street. By providing homeless people a place to live and receive resources, they will be able to help their position.

With any money, goods and services they would need to keep themselves on their feet.
