

Who was your favorite boss?

Asked in downtown Chico

Irv Schiffman retired

Royce Delmatier, the former chairman of Chico State's department of political science. He allowed me to innovate and teach courses that I developed myself. He let me go off to Israel six different years. That allowed me to develop my profession and take care of my wife, who is Israeli.

Hap Hathaway
self-employed

My all-time favorite boss would have to be myself. I can't get my interests to align with anyone else so completely, with the exception of my wife and son. And I think my wife is really the boss, actually.

Alex Woodard team member

My all-time favorite boss is my current boss. His name is Stone. He's very relatable; he doesn't talk down to people. He makes everybody feel like they're part of our restaurant's big family team.

James McBryan
small business owner

My boss Chris when I was in college and did residential computing at Cal Berkeley. He empowered me to do what I wanted with the position. He was inspiring and excellent with his leadership and team dynamics. Like me, he was an Eagle Scout, and I think that's where it came from.

Market-linked CDs are typically longer-term investments. FDIC insurance is subject to FDIC limits. Principal invested in excess of FDIC limits is not insured and is subject to the credit risk of the issuer. Principal protection only applies if the CDs are held to maturity. If not held to maturity, a market-linked CD is subject to market risk, and trading in the secondary market may be thin or even nonexistent, and the price per CD may be less than par. Total payment at maturity may be less than what would be received if you had invested in the underlying asset(s) directly. Some market-linked CDs may limit participation in the underlying asset(s). Market Linked CD returns may vary from the indices' or assets' actual performance. Additional risks may apply based on the specific issue. May not be suitable for all investors. Investors should carefully read the related term sheet and prospectus and/or disclosure statement before investing. Structured product CDs may be treated differently than traditional CDs for tax purposes and investors should consult their tax advisors.
