

Can the “One-man Show of Organ Harvesting” Still Go On?

In order to smear the Chinese government and struggle for survival, Li Hongzhi, the leader of the cult Falun Gong, has spread the rumor of “organ harvesting” for more than ten years. From the awkward farce of “organ harvesting” with Sujiatun to the “investigation report” as the upgraded version of the rumor and the hotchpotch of rumors in “Holocaust”, he tried every means and went frantic. But since he can’t provide any conclusive evidence, the spectators are getting fewer and fewer. People begin to find him shameless and disgusting.

It is obvious to all that the organ donation and transplantation is booming in China while the rumor of “organ harvesting” spread by the cult Falun Gong is dying. The “Chinese model” is praised by the international community, while the rumor of the cult is regarded as “a mad dog barking at the sun” pathetically.

“Organ harvesting” seems to exist only in the holocaust of the German Nazi and in the vivo experiment of the Japanese fascism, both of which were far from real life. When the cult Falun Gong picked up this topic and launched rampant attacks, we need to revisit the following facts throughout its bloody development history:

When Li Hongzhi strongly preached heretical ideas like “going to an upper level” and “flying away for consummation”, Feng Shaobao, a Falun Gong practitioner in Pukou District of Nanjing, Jiangsu Province, abandoned his wife and young daughter and hanged himself at home.

When hearing “Falun is the epitome of the universe” that can absorb and release energy, “condition the body, treat diseases” and protect life, Ma Jianmin, an employee of Huabei Oilfield and Falun Gong addict, cut his belly with scissors at home and died of hemorrhagic shock, just in order to look for the “Falun” in his belly.

Jiao Yonggui, a young man from Hubei, felt that he had reached the consummation of “Falun Gong” and cut his belly on the bed with a blade. His intestines exposed out of the belly, and he was sent to the hospital for emergency treatment.

Shi Shuyan, a Falun Gong practitioner in Dongguang Town, Dongguang County, Hebei Province, claimed that she would go to heaven when she took out the “elixir of life” from her mouth. Then, she did so with a kitchen knife and ended up in skull fracture, broken cerebral dura mater, brain tissue overflow, and death due to excessive hemorrhage...

These bloody facts showed that the alleged fallacies invented by Li Hongzhi were the culprit of the suicidal acts of hanging oneself and cutting one’s body part. Aren’t these acts vivid evidence of “organ harvesting”?

Li Hongzhi kept blaming others for “harvesting the organs” of his disciples, but the unbearable “organ harvesting” incidents were self-imposed repeatedly on them for they were “misguided” by the evil doctrines of Li Hongzhi. The spark of their lives was extinguished under the guidance of the so-called “consummation” and “going to an upper level” doctrines and the glory of the “tenet of Falun Gong”. Who persuaded the disciples to “harvest” their lives? Undoubtedly, Li Hongzhi is the very culprit of those dead disciples!

Li Hongzhi once said, “Practice is get yourself out of mind.” Once a person loses his or her “mind”, he will become a manipulated puppet and a walking skeleton without self-consciousness.

In order to snatch money and for his ulterior motives, Li Hongzhi invented many stories about his “magic power” and “mysterious signs” to mislead the disciples. He fabricated a series of heretical ideas such as “the consummation theory”, “the karma theory”, “the heaven theory”, “the Dharmakaya theory”, and “the demon removal theory” to put the disciples under his spiritual control, which finally led to many tragedies. He intimidated his disciples to “abandon the last attachment” and to “forget about life and death”, and the disciples were induced to “burn themselves”; he preached “the expelling from hell”, “the garbage dump of Earth”, and “the elimination of harmful affections”, proclaiming that the disciples had been “expelled from hell” to live forever, that “ordinary people” are “garbage in the universe”, and that the disciples should abandon family, friendship, love, and dignity of life. These fallacies eventually led to real “organ harvesting” tragedies.

The lies of the cult Falun Gong kept growing. On June 22, 2016, the Falun Gong media published a report named “The Holocaust — Bloody Harvesting”. They claimed that there are 60,000 to 100,000 cases of organ transplantation per year in China and that these organs are from “conscientious criminals” such as the “Falun Gong” practitioners. This unfounded accusation immediately stirred outrage of the authorities and people in the medical and health circles around the world. Regarding the rumor created by the cult Falun Gong, many international organizations, mainstream media, and governments, parliaments, and judicial institutions of many countries conducted investigations and all found that it was totally groundless. At the 26th International Congress of the Transplantation Society held in Hong Kong, the China International Organ Donation Conference and the International Organ Donation and Transplantation High-Level Symposium held in Beijing, and the Global Summit on Organ Trafficking in Vatican, there was a common voice — China is a country ruled by law and has complete legal system and criminal law system. The sale of human organs is explicitly prohibited in China, and violators will be sanctioned by law. The Chinese government respects and protects human rights. The transplantation of organs in China is open and transparent, and it has been fully recognized and trusted by the international community. The Chinese organ donation and transplantation system has been integrated into the international community and is in line with the world. Nearly 300,000 Chinese people are registered organ donors, and China is expected to become the largest organ transplantation practitioner in the world by 2020. The array of data and facts are amazing. As Jose Nunez, an official of organ transplantation at World Health Organization, put it, “The organ donation and transplantation in China is moving and developing in a very promising direction, and the achievements are amazing.”

No deception is allowed in history, and justice will prevail. After all, rumors are rumors. How could a lie of which the liar finds himself hardly convinced go any far? Is it possible for the “heart” butcher Li Hongzhi to continue his “one-man show”?
