

Boulevard Pizza

1076 Rock Blvd, Sparks, 359-2124

Boulevard Pizza is a big restaurant with one of the last vestiges of a salad bar. They proudly display their wing fest trophies. Paulie asked to say hi to the owner, Tony, a staunch rival and competitor, but he had stepped out for the night.

While we were waiting, we taught Paulie how to use Instagram. Everything was jovial until our wings showed up. They were tiny raisins of meat wrapped around toothpicks for bones. Paulie took a photo of them next to a quarter for scale.

They were lightly sauced—vinegary and peppery, enough to make you sneeze.

“Welp, that was easy,” said Nick. We threw them down and left them behind.

Aloha Shack

8798 N. Red Rock Road, 622-8825

Aloha Shack is a Hawaiian restaurant that used to be a food truck, so it’s definitely an outlier for typical Buffalo wings. Owners Chris and Theresa Luke are also competitors at Wing Fest.

“You brought this dude?” said Chris when we saw Paulie come through the door, ribbing him the whole time about whose wings were better.

We tried one of each of their styles— island barbecue, garlic mango Buffalo, peach habañero barbecue, the dry rub, their ono Siracha honey and their pineapple upside down.

The wings are suspiciously massive, like the chickens used to train at some Crossfit body builder farm.

“One of these wings is like all six of fuckin’ Boulevard’s,” said Paulie.

I was amenable to the garlic mango Buffalo, despite being a twist on the classic. They weren’t Nick’s favorite. They were crispy enough but could have crisped a little longer. The ono style was really nicely dressed with green onions and sesame seeds, maybe the best presentation of the day.

Everywhere else

We only had time for five spots, but we spent the whole time talking about everywhere else that does great wings in Reno. Paulie is a huge fan of Red Necks, a food truck that does grilled barbecue wings. Noble Pie got that glowing review from Guy Fieri on the Food Network, so good for them. I eat those wings a lot myself, especially late night.

Also worth noting is Archie’s and The Depot for happy hour. Tragash mentioned Louis’ Basque Corner, Arario and Carolina BBQ for unusually delightful wing styles.

But to Tom Verzola and everyone out there, when it comes to wings, go with whatever makes your mouth water. □

When applying the scientific method, it helps to start with a large sample size.
PHOTO/LUKA STARMER

High Desert Montessori School

A Public Charter School in Reno, Nevada

Invites applications for the position of Principal

Who We Are

High Desert Montessori School is a dynamic public Montessori Charter school that serves 400 students from three years old to eighth grade. We have a strong team of 50 committed staff members. Our has been open for 17 years and is now entering an exciting expansion phase which includes the remodel of our facility and movement from campuses at two buildings (located across the street from one another) to one unified campus.

Where We Are Located

HDMS is located in Reno, Nevada. Less than an hour from Lake Tahoe and just minutes from the Sierra Nevada Mountains, Reno offers easy access to a variety of sporting and outdoor activities and some of the most spectacular landscapes in the west. Reno hosts over 100 festivals a year and is rich in culture and events. Additionally, Nevada has no state income tax.

Who We Are Seeking

Our school is currently seeking a Principal (preferably Montessori experienced) to start the 2020-2021 school year. The selected candidate will work with the Executive Director. The principal oversees curriculum and instruction, teacher hiring, teacher performance evaluations, teacher professional development, teaching assistant support and performance, student conduct, attendance, behavior, MTSS, and level 2 disciplinary and parent concerns.

What We Offer Our Employees

We offer a very competitive starting salary which aligns with our local school district. We offer an excellent benefits package, which includes medical, dental, vision and life insurance and membership in the Nevada Public Employees Retirement System.

2020 Search Calendar

Date	Activity
March 16-27	Spring Break
March 27	Close Candidate Application Period
March 30	Begin Reviewing Applications
April 8	Select Candidates for Interview
April 16-17	Board Conducts Initial Interviews
April 20-24	Background and Reference Checks
May 4-7	Board Conduct 2nd Interviews
May 8	Announce new Principal Selection
July 1	New Principal Begins Employment

*dates subject to change, please check website for updates

Application Info

High Desert Montessori School is an equal opportunity employer. Application materials may be obtained from our school's website: www.hdmsreno.com

Applications should be submitted as e-mail attachments in Word, Docs, PDF or jpeg format to Sherrie Jordan at: sherrie@hdmsreno.com

Application Requirements

- Cover Letter including a statement about how your experience and skills fit the mission and philosophy of the school.
- Completed Application
- Current Resume
- Copy of teaching license/ administrator license
- Copy of Montessori Credential, if applicable
- Professional Letters of Recommendation (minimum of three required)
- Evidence of effective communication skills with community, staff and parents.
- Experience as a member of a governing board/or leadership
- Evaluations from the last three years.

Minimum Requirements

- Montessori Experience Preferred
- Five years of teaching experience;
- Master's degree in the field of education;
- Three years of administrative experience (preferred);
- Current Nevada administrator license; or eligibility to obtain one

High Desert Montessori School
2590 Orovada Street
Reno, NV 89512
775-624-2800