FESTIVALS

SATURDAY, 3/23

I STREET LANTERN FESTIVAL: Are you jazzed about the I Street Bridge being transitioned into a pedestrian haven and kicking the cars to the curb of a new bridge? Then come celebrate with this lantern walk! There will be an introduction and information about the bridge, as well as musical performances and lantern festivities, along with a walk that goes for nearly a mile. 7pm, no cover. I Street Bridge, 201 C St. in West Sacramento.

MEADOWVIEW COMMUNITY HISTORY FESTIVAL: This festival, brought to you in part by Capital Public Radio, seeks to document the people living in Meadowview, and what it means to live there. It's part of an effort to put in the historical record the people who live there. Folks from Meadowview are encouraged to bring old photos to share and be scanned, old videos and old stories. You'll be able to take photos, eat food and meet people who live in the neighborhood. 10am, no cover. Samuel Pannell Meadowview Community Center, 2450 Meadowview Road.

POG + QUEER MARKET: Sol Collective will be full to the brim with good vendors and good eats. Half Plastic, Tasha Throws Raw, Bummers Books, Daisy Cards, Birdmilk Vintage, The Cozy Broke, Esther Hall and more vendors will be sharing their unique goods. 10am, no cover. Sol Collective, 2574 21st St.
