OLD IRONSIDES

Old I has long been a home for Sacramento's underground music scene. In the '90s, bands such as Sex66 and The Knockoffs brought an energy to the 10th Street restaurant-bar that's mythologized by veteran scenesters. Now, it remains a nightly platform for rising musicians with its Wednesday open-mic and Sunday jams with Heath Williamson.

If you want a chance at the stage but can't play an instrument, it's free Tuesday KAROAK "I" is one of the best in town. The Kanelos family, the owners since 1934, recently announced that they were selling the venue. Let's hope the new owners will keep the music going.
